

GULF OIL SPILL SYMPOSIUM

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

deadline: October 22, 2010

About the Albany Law Review

The Albany Law Review is an independent, student-run organization, housed at Albany Law School. The Law Review is committed to making meaningful contributions to the law and legal scholarship through the publication of critical and analytical articles. To date, the Law Review has produced 73 volumes of legal scholarship written by judges, lawyers, law school professors, as well as notes and comments on legal topics written by members and other students. Each year the Law Review publishes four books; one on general legal issues and our annual symposium, one focused on New York State appellate courts, one devoted to our annual state constitutional commentary, and beginning in 2011, the Law Review will publish its inaugural Miscarriages of Justice issue. More information can be found on our website, www.albanylawreview.org.

Questions

Joseph K. Dier
Executive Editor for Symposia
518-755-2469
JDier@albanylaw.edu

The Albany Law Review is soliciting short article submissions for publication in its annual symposium issue. Selected articles will be published in the first issue of volume seventy-four, scheduled for January 2011.

Beginning in 2011, the Law Review will reserve half of the first issue for the publication of articles and lectures on a specific topic of contemporary importance to the legal community. Generally held in the fall or late winter, the symposium features presentations by some of our nation's leading legal scholars and policy leaders. This year's symposium will focus on the legal, political, environmental, and social effects of the BP oil spill. The symposium will examine the numerous legal actions that are sure to ensue, the current regulatory framework and what changes are likely to occur, as well as discuss the roles of the EPA and Coast Guard in performing such an enormous cleanup operation. Short articles by legal scholars, industry professionals, and law or graduate students are now being sought on related subject matter.

Format and Length

Short articles are between 10 and 20 pages in length. Articles need only be lightly footnoted. All articles submitted should be of publishable quality and in substantially finished form.

Submission

Articles can be submitted electronically or through postal mail.

E-Mail: JDier@albanylaw.edu

Postal Mail: Albany Law Review
Attn: Joseph K. Dier, Executive Editor for Symposia
80 New Scotland Avenue
Albany, New York 12208-3494

Deadline

October 22, 2010

Editorial Philosophy

Through editing, Albany Law Review seeks to ensure the substantive and grammatical correctness of every line published. We will never attempt to alter the "voice" of a piece or its author. Any and all editorial changes made by Law Review staff will be finally agreed upon by the author prior to publication.

ALBANY LAW SCHOOL

Albany Law Review 80 New Scotland Avenue, Albany, New York 12208-3494
www.albanylawreview.org lawreview@albanylaw.edu